HKSTP Celebrates BrainAurora's Successful HKEX Listing, Strengthening Hong Kong's Innovation Ecosystem

(Hong Kong, 8 January 2025) – The Hong Kong Science and Technology Parks Corporation (HKSTP) extends its warm congratulations to BrainAurora Medical Technology Co., Ltd. (BrainAurora) for its successful listing on the Main Board of the Hong Kong Stock Exchange (HKEX) on 8 January. This milestone marks not only a major achievement for BrainAurora but also a significant boost to Hong Kong's innovation and technology landscape.

Founded in 2012, BrainAurora specializes in the assessment and intervention of cognitive disorders related to vascular diseases, neurodegenerative diseases, mental health conditions, and developmental disorders in children. One of its flagship products, the Brain Function Information Management Platform Software System, is the first digital therapeutic product for cognitive impairment to receive regulatory approval. This achievement highlights the company's strength in product development and clinical validation.

Gracie Ng, Acting Chief Corporate Development Officer of HKSTP, commented: "We are delighted to see BrainAurora choose Hong Kong as its base for business development. Their listing adds significant momentum to Hong Kong's flourishing innovation and technology sector. Moving forward, BrainAurora will benefit from the abundant resources, support, and networking opportunities within HKSTP's life and health technology ecosystem. We are confident that the company will help strengthen Hong Kong's position as an international innovation and technology hub."

HKSTP is home to Hong Kong's largest scientific research base and boasts a world-class innovation ecosystem. It brings together diverse tech enterprises to advance cutting-edge technologies and plays a key role in driving the long-term development of Hong Kong and the Greater Bay Area. Currently, HKSTP supports over 2,000 innovation and technology companies and more than 15,000 R&D professionals from 25 countries and regions. HKSTP remains committed to enhancing its ecosystem and helping enterprises thrive in Hong Kong's dynamic innovation landscape.
